

The Museum Song

Many children know that special places, such as the library, preschool, church or temple, require special behavior. Singing the museum song is a way to introduce expectations in a fun, warm, and memorable way. To the tune of Where is Thumbkin. The italics represent the group repeating after the song leader.

In the Museum
In the Museum

We don't touch...
We don't touch...

We use our eyes
We use our eyes

We don't touch
We don't touch

In the Museum
In the Museum

We don't run
We don't run

We will walk together
We will walk together

We don't run
We don't run

In the Museum
In the Museum

We don't shout
We don't shout

We use inside voices
We use inside voices

We don't shout
We don't shout

In the Museum
In the Museum

We have fun
We have fun

We will be creative
We will be creative

We have fun
We have fun

Inspired by Cool Culture partner Shanta Lawson, Education Director at the Studio Museum in Harlem