

Meeting People Where They Are

Directions: Read the situation. Identify any challenges or barriers your participants may face. Determine what might help. Explain what your next step would be. Use your notes, your team members' perspectives and experience, and your handouts as resources to help you.

Here's the Situation	Important Considerations and Possible Challenges	What knowledge about how adults learn and engage can help you out?	What would you suggest as a next step?
Your boss asks you to deliver an informational session on potential impacts of the Every Student Succeeds Act at an upcoming parent advisory council meeting. He expects you to use the same long, comprehensive and detailed presentation which was originally created for and delivered to district superintendents.

Situations: Practice and Apply

Meeting People Where They Are

Directions: Read the situation. Identify any challenges or barriers your participants may face. Determine what might help. Explain what your next step would be. Use your notes, your team members' perspectives and experience, and your handouts as resources to help you.

Here's the Situation	Important Considerations and Possible Challenges	What knowledge about how adults learn and engage can help you out?	What would you suggest as a next step?
Parents of high school students who plan to attend college want to help and support their children, but most have no experience and need help with the application process, admissions timelines, academic and testing requirements, and how to access financial aid.			