

PARTNERING TOGETHER TO STRENGTHEN FAMILY-SCHOOL PARTNERSHIPS

Scholastic FACE (Family and Community Engagement) and Dr. Karen Mapp have partnered together to create a collection of comprehensive family-school partnership trainings, resources, and programming to support educators in turning research into practice. Our collaboration provides solutions and best practices for strengthening home and school relationships while empowering educators and families for student success.

ADULT EDUCATION BUILDING FAMILY ENGAGEMENT CAPACITY AT THE SCHOOL LEVEL

Dr. Karen Mapp's Family Engagement Workshop Series is rooted in the research and best practices of the Dual Capacity-Building Framework for Family-School Partnerships. This series consists of three interactive, full-day workshops that equip district staff and school teams with tools and strategies to enhance student performance and systemically improve schools.

GRADES PREK-5 SCHOLASTIC LITERACY EVENTS

Scholastic Literacy Events empowers families, unites communities, and builds their capacity to foster language and literacy skills in their children. These literacy-rich events and activity kits help schools develop partnerships with families and communities that will transform all students into lifelong readers and learners.

KAREN L. MAPP, EdD., is a senior lecturer on education at the Harvard Graduate School of Education and the faculty director of the Education Policy and Management master's program. Over the past twenty years, Mapp's research and practice has been on the cultivation of partnerships among families, community members, and educators who support student achievement and school improvement.
