Preparing to Navigate Uncertain ‘Learning/Earning’ Futures

Jason Swanson
• Forecast local images of the future of work
• Develop future readiness profiles
• Create new learning experiences
• Leverage cross-sector opportunities
TEMP WANTED
Changes on the Horizon

How might other trends, drivers of change, existing efforts, or potential disruptions might affect the future of work in your area?

Discuss with your tablemates and capture ideas on the template on page 5.
Futures of Work

Select one or more of the trends, drivers of change, efforts, or potential disruptions and extrapolate forward to envision a different future.

Consider the assumptions as you extrapolate.
Future Readiness Profiles

Based on the future of work your group forecasted, what types of knowledge, skills, and dispositions might someone need to be ready in your future?
A New Foundation for Readiness

knowledgeworks.org
Future Learning Experiences

What sorts of pathways might be needed to support the development of the readiness profiles you created?

What sectors could be involved?

What attributes should the experience have? What attributes should be avoided?
Cross-Sector Opportunities

How might local efforts, levers for and barriers to change, and aspirational ideas bring your learning experience to fruition?

What is already underway locally?

What could be leveraged?

What might get in the way of being able to address the opportunity fully?

How might you address the opportunity if you had no limits?
Thank You

Jason Swanson
swansonj@knowledgeworks.org